Stainless steel

Air pipe systems

The press connection used to connect pipes and fittings is very user-friendly: simple, fast and safe. The system is resistant to extreme conditions and corrosion, making it suitable for a wide range of applications.

We offer the complete range of compression fittings, stainless steel pipes and tools from our central warehouse in Vianen to optimize ease of use. The products are of excellent quality, have a large number of certificates from all the major European inspection authorities and the price/quality ratio is very attractive.
